

Faculty's other side
Teaching as day job
for real-world artists
8

Solar bears endure first lost at home
Greenville shut Orlando in shootouts right before 4-game road stretch 10

Mike Gramajo / Valencia Voice

Aneetra Andrews (left) and Carey Collins (right) participated in the "Rock the Vote" event to increase voting awareness.

Danny Morales / Valencia Voice

Mayor Gary Bruhn encouraged students be proactive and vote.

SGA "Rocks the Vote" for awareness

By Mike Gramajo
mgramajo@valenciavoice.com

WEST CAMPUS — The Student Government Association of West Campus held a "Rock the Vote" event, Thursday afternoon in front of the Student Services Building to increase voting awareness.

The event kicked off at noon and ended at 3 p.m., with mayor of Windermere, Gary Bruhn, speaking to Valencia students.

"You're going to have a decision to make," said Bruhn. "Do your research and vote because every vote counts."

Oak Ridge High School marching band got the event started by playing several songs before SGA West Campus President Ethan King introduced the Windermere mayor.

Campaign staff from both Obama and Romney camps occupied a small section of the courtyard, attempting to sway Valencia student voters.

"We want to motivate you guys to vote," said King.

Early voting in Florida began on Saturday and with the Sunshine State being a potential decider in the election, awareness around the Central Florida area is spreading.

According to a new poll released Monday by CNN/ORC International, GOP candidate Mitt Romney holds 50 percent of Florida voters, while President Obama holds 49 percent.

"The decisions that you make will affect not only today, but what will happen tomorrow," said Bruhn, who has been mayor of Windermere since 2004 and has served four straight terms.

Early voting began on Saturday and will end on Election Day, Tuesday, Nov. 6.

Clinton takes over UCF rally

Obama leaves Orlando, cancels campaign speech

By Mike Gramajo
mgramajo@valenciavoice.com

ORLANDO — Former President Bill Clinton spoke at a rally Monday morning at the University of Central Florida, encouraging college students and community to vote early.

The former president was expected to open for President Barack Obama, but with Hurricane Sandy threatening the Northeast, Obama cancelled his appearance to return to Washington, leaving Clinton to address supporters.

"Vote for the man with a plan, vote for Barack Obama," said Clinton, in front of thousands of students at UCF's Memory Mall. "This guy has taken on more tough problems in less time and gotten good results, but we couldn't get well in four years."

Early voting began on Saturday and with election day one week away, Clinton encouraged those in attendance to vote before Nov. 6.

"If you had a hole to fill, would you dig it deeper before you fill it," said Clinton on Romney's economic policy.

Felicia Roopchand / Valencia Voice

President Clinton became headliner of rally after President Obama left Orlando to deal with Sandy.

Clinton promoted "Obamacare," saying that Romney is criticizing the same plan that Romney himself established when he was Massachusetts' governor.

"Let's look at what this terrible, terrible law has done, oh it's awful," said Clinton on Mitt Romney's attack on Obama's health care reform law.

"For the last two years, for the first time in 51 years, medical cost inflation has been 4 percent or less in two years in-a-row," he added.

Chants of "four more years" echoed the Memory Mall, as students showed support for Obama's re-election.

Clinton added that Obama proposes a better health care plan for America and will not turn Medicare into a voucher program, which the Obama campaign has scrutinized the Romney campaign for suggesting.

— See "Clinton" on Page 2

Clinton

— Continued from Page 1

Other talking points included the rising costs of going to school.

“Mr. Romney wants to gut student aid,” said Clinton on Romney’s education policy.

“The most important thing President Obama has done is to reform the student loan program and allow it to initiate to help universities and colleges cut the rate of inflation in half in college costs,” said Clinton. “No college graduate have to take a job just to pay a bill.”

The event kicked off with replacement opener Charlie Crist, former Florida governor, who hyped up the crowd by comparing Obama’s current policies to that Romney’s.

According to Crist, “Jobs now are up, unem-

Felicia Roopchand / Valencia Voice

President Clinton focused on promoting early voting at a Monday morning, Oct. 28, rally in UCF’s Memory Mall.

ployment now is down. Improving education, up, blaming teachers, down. Barack Obama, up, Mitt Romney, down. Moving forward, not backwards.”

Felicia Roopchand / Valencia Voice

Former governor Charlie Crist and Florida Senator Bill Nelson joined President Clinton to promote President Obama.

Winning Hearts, Minds and Lungs.

valenciacollege.edu/sharetheair

Made possible by funding from the Department of Health and Human Services and all its.

VALENCIA

EVERY SUCCESS STORY
DESERVES A SEQUEL.

UCF

Nearby. Online.

ucfvalenciaosceola.com • ucfvalenciawest.com

Lake brings new lab option

Students explore ecosystems

By Nick Lawro
nlawro@valenciavoice.com

WEST CAMPUS — Walking around Lake Pamela this Wednesday, students and faculty experienced an in-depth tour of Valencia's very own all-natural body of water and its surrounding nature.

Valencia College Director of Sustainability, Deborah Green, conducted a tour around the campus's lake, which was formed by a sinkhole in the prehistoric period. Speaking to a group of 20 people, Green touched on the educational possibilities of Lake Pamela.

"We're trying to make the campus a living laboratory," said Green. "We need more professors to make better use of it."

The environmentalist pointed out many native and invasive plants and trees which line the lake's shoreline. Over 20 species of foliage and vegetation litter Lake Pamela.

Dahoon holly, one of Florida's native trees, can be found along the trail. Green informed the tour that the red berries growing from the tree are not edible, adding that any red or black berries are not healthy; however blue berries are perfectly fine to consume.

Nature enthusiasts participating in the tour picked and smelled red bay leaves, which are commonly used for flavor in soup. These leaves can be easily identified by their copious veins found on the backside of the leaf.

Lake Pamela is currently in a stage of recovery due to pollution caused by runoff from the St. Augustine grass located on the slope between the cafeteria patio and the shoreline.

Concerned environmentalists on campus found that if you keep a natural border of growth around the water it prevents unwanted chemicals from

Mike Gramajo / Valencia Voice

Students got a change to explore the many kinds of vegetation around Lake Pamela and their learning possibilities.

tainting the lake and its inhabitants. Lily pads and other healthy plant life throughout the lake are a good indication of progressive restoration.

Throughout the nature walk, participants were able to see the progress of many sustainable projects underway. These works include the recently constructed butterfly garden, a wild flower patch, and the Tree Campus U.S.A. program.

Walking along the pathway lined with dune sunflowers and guinea grass, Terrell Walton, a student at Valencia, took interest in the environmental awareness walk. "Nature means a lot to me, the more we lose our trees, the more we lose our city's natural beauty," said Walton.

Valencia College's president, Dr. Sanford Shugart, signed the American College and University President's Climate Commitment in 2009. Since then Valencia's West campus has had an impressive track record of low greenhouse gas emissions. According to Green, there's still more to do.

"We've yet to begin to scratch the surface on our carbon footprint."

See what Webster University has for u!

EARN YOUR BACHELOR'S DEGREE

- Business Administration • Human Resources Management • Management • Psychology

Generous Transfer of Credit Policy
Terms begin in January, March, June, August or October
Small Classes Meet One Evening Per Week
Convenient Free Parking

Webster
UNIVERSITY

North Orlando: Sanlando Center • 407-869-8111
South Orlando: Westwood Corporate Center • 407-345-1139
1-888-302-8111 • webster.edu/orlando

Long, complex ballot intimidating to voters

By James Tutton and Shannon Scheidell / Valencia Voice

One of the most notable impacts of this year’s political election, for students, is the size and complexity of our local ballot.

Many concerned voters across the state are pointing out that this year’s ballot — containing four pages and over 4,000 words — can intimidate and discourage voters who are less informed about current issues. Some students know who they want for president of the United States, but they may not find potential changes to the amendments that easy to determine.

All the extra wording, added to this year’s sample ballot, comes from proposed actions like Amendment 4, which contains over 600 words and has to be translated into Spanish. This amendment alone takes up one entire page.

There are 12 amendments proposed, with additional questions affecting the state charter. To be a fully-informed voter, this entails quite a lot of research.

On election day, people who feel intimidated by complex language may decide that they are not confident enough with their decision due to a lack in comprehension.

Voters who haven’t looked over the sample ballots, which were mailed out over a week ago, could contribute to long lines and added confusion at polling stations on Nov. 6.

We spoke with students on Valencia’s West Campus to gauge their reaction to the sample ballots they had recently reviewed.

Would the complex wording and overall length of the ballot discourage you from placing your vote?

“I had to break it down for my daughter, who’s 21. I think the ballot would definitely be intimidating at that age.”
— Patrice Cobb

“I think it’s good, actually. It gives you more choices. The more information we can get about the amendments, the better.”
— Alex Bori

“It would be better if it were done at home, where you’re not pressured or rushed. But no, it’s not discouraging.”
— Cassandra Ames

“I’m not voting; I’m new to the state. I know who the candidates are, but I don’t know what they stand for.”
— Michael O’Blenis

“They should put it in more common language, not lawyer talk. Everyone has the right to vote.”
— Brigitte Loper

There are so many people on the ballot and so many political ads, you don’t know who’s right for who.
— Brandon Aloupis

If you’re a first-time voter and you don’t know your politics or the amendments, it can be very intimidating.
— Brittany Torres

If you’re an uneducated person, the ballot can be intimidating. I did have my dad and his lawyer friend help me out.
— Chad Paige

Tweets of the Week

Michael Ian Black @michaelianblack
I have water and batteries, but I'm running dangerously low on Stacy's Pita Chips. #panic

Mindy Kaling @mindykaling
9 months from now hopefully we will have some cool Hurricane Sandy babies!

CollegeTownLife @CollegeTownLife
I'm think that this Halloween I'm going to scare everyone I know by texting them "We need to talk."

Conan O'Brien @ConanOBrien
My hair just urged me to run for office.

Mare @MarisBueller
"What if gangam style is actually a rain dance and we brought this hurricane on ourselves?"

Craig Ferguson @CraigyFerg
Took a nap & dreamed I was US cultural attach   to Canada.

Seth MacFarlane @SethMacFarlane
I wish someone would tell Romney his hair makes him look like Peter Parker's boss.

Stephen Colbert @StephenAtHome
Halloween is right around the corner. You can tell because all the stores are decked out for Christmas.

ValenciaVoice

Official Student Media of Valencia College

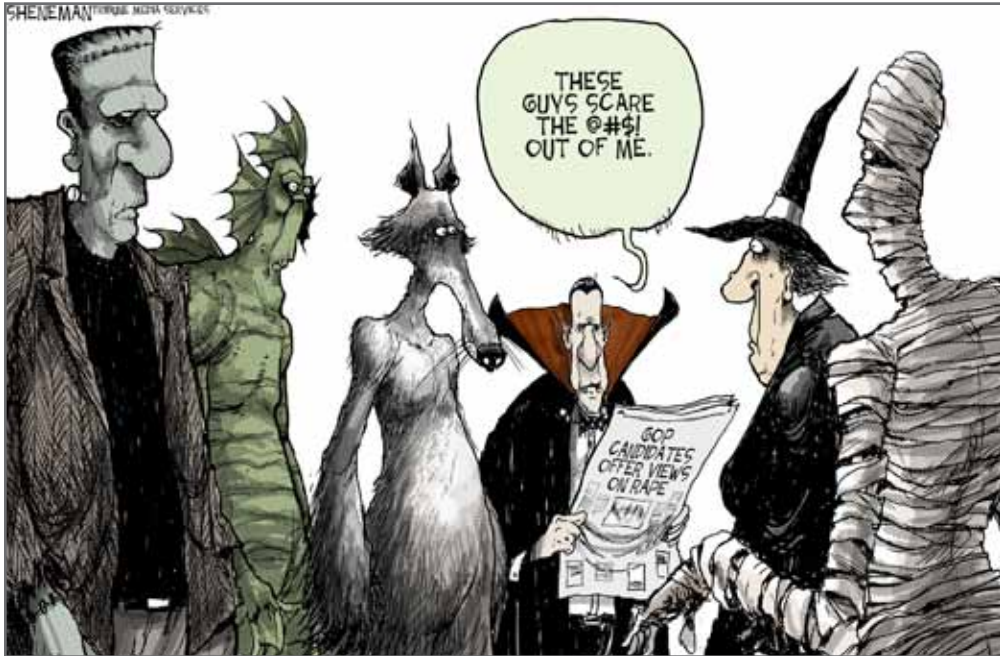

Fall 2012

Editor-in-chief	Marianella Zapata Noriega
News Editor	Natasha Tetley
Opinion Editor	James Tutton
Features Editor	Felicia Roopchand
Sports Editor	Mike Gramajo
Multimedia Editor	Christopher Ortega
Advertisement Director	Jeremy Williams
Copy Editor	Shannon Scheidell

Staff

Kara Boyt	Ally Marcus
Juan Gallargo	Danny Morales
Colleen Hall	Joel Pinero
Amber Hastings	Alexa Rydelek
Lawrence Laguna	Jaconia Toyloy
Nicholas Lawro	Robert Van Deering
Eileen Ludwig

Opinions expressed are those of the Valencia Voice, its staff members and contributors, and are not necessarily those of Valencia College, its staff, faculty, or student body.

New ‘007’ film hits international theatres

“Skyfall” debuts # 1 in 25 countries

By Amy Kaufman
Los Angeles Times

Sony Pictures is spying a hit in its latest James Bond film, as "Skyfall" premiered at No. 1 in 25 foreign countries this weekend.

The film, starring Daniel Craig in the 23rd entry featuring 007, collected an impressive $77.7 million overseas this weekend, according to an estimate from Sony, which is distributing the film internationally. "Skyfall," financed by Sony and Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer for just under $200 million, doesn't hit U.S. theaters until Nov. 9.

Courtesy of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer/Columbia Pictures

Daniel Craig returns as the dapper secret agent, James Bond, for the third time in “Skyfall”.

Of the 25 international markets that the film played in this weekend, it easily did best on Bond's home turf, Britain. The picture sold $32.4 million worth of tickets there the biggest opening of the year so far and 30 percent ahead of the opening for Craig's last Bond film, 2008's "Quantum of Solace."

Business also was strong in France, where the movie grossed $9.1 million, and in Russia, where receipts amounted to $8.6 million. "Solace" ultimately collected $417.7 million abroad, roughly 71 percent of its worldwide gross.

The strong international bow for "Skyfall" bodes well for its U.S. prospects, especially since early reviews have been exceptionally positive. As of Sunday, the movie had earned a 94 percent fresh rating on Rotten Tomatoes.

Courtesy of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer/Columbia Pictures
Bérénice Marlohe plays one of the Bond girls.

— MCT Campus

Nov. 2

“The Man With the Iron Fist”

Rated:R
Running Time: N/A
Genre: Action
Director: RZA
Starring: Russell Crowe, Cung Le, Lucy Loi

“Wreck-It Ralph”

Rated: PG
Running Time: N/A
Genre: Comedy / Family
Director: Rich Moore
Starring: John C. Reilly, Jack McRayer, Sarah Silverman, Jane Lynch

Box Office

“Argo”

Rated:
R

This Weekend:
$ 12,085,059

Total Gross:
$ 60,510,347

“Cloud Atlas”

Rated:
R

This Weekend:
$ 9,612,247

Total Gross:
$ 9,612,247

“Hotel Transylvania”

Rated:
PG

This Weekend:
$ 9,444,014

Total Gross:
$ 130,380,355

Faculty's other side

Teaching as day job for real-world artists

By Shannon Scheidell
sscheidell@valenciavoice.com

EAST CAMPUS — The opening reception for part one of the Faculty Fine Art gallery series featured works by Valencia teachers on the East Campus, Friday night.

Jackie Otto Miller, curator of the Anita S. Wooten gallery where the show took place, presented two of her own paintings.

Debussy's "Prelude to an Evening of a Faun" played in the background as students and artists alike joined in light conversation surrounding the mixed media pieces around them.

"Art is a carrier of ideas," Miller said, "representing the social fiber of the environment, the spiritual condition of the world."

Lindsay Singer, photo laboratory assistant, said, "We had a great selection this year. It's fantastic that kids get a taste of what their teachers are really like during their free time outside of the classroom."

The Fine Art Faculty show takes place once a year, offering half of the staff a chance to display their works this year and giving the others a chance next year.

A juror goes through 150 of the entries and picks 50 to go into the gallery.

Throughout the discourse of the night, now that there are less than two weeks before election day, there was a subtle politically charged theme winding its way into the discussions.

Speaking about the work of Camilo Velasquez, Valencia alumnus Gene Valentine said he found controversy lurking between the lines of poetry amid the photographs of William Tecumseh Sherman, a general in the Union Army during the Civil War.

"They're really political, targeting anything mainstream. It's an observation of history, that's what really caught my eye," said Valentine.

Valentine is curating his own gallery at City Arts Factory, titled "Incursion," in January of next year.

Going by the name of simply "Kyle," he is a teacher of drawing and design at Valencia, who spoke about the importance of understanding today's news and the ways that people of the world are changing every day.

While discussing with students the meaning behind his "Floating, Falling" piece, which features iconic archetypes of comic book heroes and heroines, among other baseball players and one woman scrambling to recover her bag of groceries that was tossed in the air, he said, "It's like politics today. Both of these men are brilliant and they're calling each other liars."

Kyle said, "It feels like truth is escaping us. We're losing a sense of true north. I think people feel like they're falling, like they're floating."

Allan Maxwell, drawing and photog-

Shannon Scheidell / Valencia Voice

"The Study of So-Yeon" by assistant professor Rima Jabbur is one of the many works that will be displayed through Dec. 14 as part of the faculty exhibit.

raphy professor, used this opportunity to display his empathy toward victims of trauma, those who suffer through social calamity and the struggle to be part of the human family all while being beaten down and left alone to rot in their corner of this cruel world.

"This is my frustration over the last 10 years," Maxwell said, "of the church and Penn. State, from people who should be protecting you, who instead take advantage."

He uses the inherent contrast between the otherworldly images, seen in color negatives, and has juxtaposed them against images of the human figure, which is shown in the natural setting of a well-lit studio.

Also on display were photographs of buildings whose sides were used as one big sprawling canvas for those skilled in the art of graffiti, stone-cut and wood-laden pottery set up on a stand in the corner of the gallery and the ghostly figure of "So-Yeon" hovered amid two women who clutched close their red cloaks against the chill of her ghostly spirit.

When you come to a show like this and interact with students and their revered professors, it's unlike any environment you can find on another campus, according to Kyle.

"The teachers here are real-world artists. Here at Valencia, you're learning about art from artists," said Kyle.

The Fine Art Faculty exhibition will remain in the Anita S. Wooten, on the East Campus in Bldg. 3 until Dec. 14, and is open to the public.

Country turned pop star seeing “Red”

Taylor Swift’s new album brings new genres, sound

By Joel Pinero
jpinero@valenciavoice.com

Taylor Swift is back with her 4th studio album, “Red”, which hit stores last Monday. The 16 track album has already hit #1 on the Billboard charts and has 6 singles which have all topped the charts.

One of the recent singles out is “We Are Never Getting Back Together” , which currently sits on the top ten most downloaded songs on iTunes.

The album follows Swift’s previous album “Speak Now”, which came out in 2010 and sold millions of copies.

Taylor broke into the music scene in 2006 with her “Country Album” and even though unconventional, she gained popularity and was thrust into the mainstream. She is seen as a few of the artist who are reinventing the outlook on pop culture. The now Grammy-Award-winning songstress is about to break the female record of having the most albums that have reached sales of over a million copies within their first week of release.

Courtesy of Allen J. Schaben/Los Angeles Times/MCT
Taylor announced her “Red” tour in partnership with ABC News during a special edition of 20/20.

Even before the album came out, she released three other singles; “Begin Again”, “I Knew You Were Trouble” and Red, which all debuted at number one on iTunes, something very rare to see.

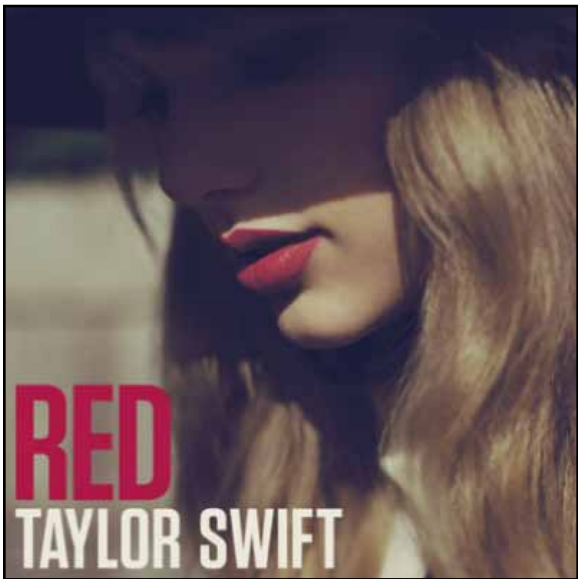

“All those emotions, spanning from intense love, intense frustration, jealousy, confusion, all of that, in my mind, all those emotions are red. You know, there’s nothing in between. There’s nothing beige about any of those feelings.” Swift explained in her Google Plus livechat.

Swift, which is known for writing all her songs about her ex’s says that this album expressed all of her emotions. All of which she saw as “Red.”

“All the different emotions that are written about on this album are all pretty much about the kind of tumultuous, crazy, insane, intense, semi-toxic relationships that I’ve experienced in the last two years,” said Swift.

One thing unique about this album is that it is the first time that swift actually collaborates with other writers to help her with her music. She also tried different music genres.

Although being known as a country artist, she chose to incorporate different sounds, like auto tune and more pop-like tracks. But even then the listener can find the traditional ballads and the occasional sound of a banjo.

The first track on the album “State of grace”, sounds a lot like a song that Coldplay would do. Focusing very heavy on the instruments, it is an atmospheric track and reminds me a lot of Coldplay’s infamous song “Clocks.”

The title track, “Red”, is also one of the albums openers and features a slow paced start with an upbeat chorus featuring some auto tune.

Some critics have said that this new sound does not suit her, but obviously the sales say different. With “Red” having already sold over 900 million copies within the first 4 days and it is destined to hit the 1 million mark before the end of its release week. The album will surely be successful.

Taylor will follow up the album with a promotional north American tour starting in 2013.

music

downloads

Week ending Oct. 23, 2012

Top tracks

( ) Last week’s ranking in top five

#1 Album

Red
Taylor
Swift

United States

Gangnam Style • PSY	(2) 1
Locked Out of Heaven • Bruno Mars	2
Die Young • Ke$ha	(5) 3
One More Night • Maroon 5	(3) 4
I Knew You Were Trouble. • Taylor Swift	(1) 5

United Kingdom

Beneath Your Beautiful • Labrinth	1
Don't ... Worry Child • Swedish House Mafia	(2) 2
Hottest Girl in the World • JLS	3
Sweet Nothing • Calvin Harris	(1) 4
Diamonds • Rihanna	(5) 5

Spain

You Are Not Alone • Robert Ramirez	1
Gangnam Style • PSY	(1) 2
Te Voy a Esperar • Juan Magan	(2) 3
Tanto • Pablo Alboran	4
Somebody That I Used to Know • Gotye	(4) 5

Source: iTunes

© 2012 MCT

Solar Bears endure first home loss

Greenville shut Orlando in shootouts right before 4-game road stretch

By Danny Morales
dmorales@valenciavoice.com

ORLANDO -- Solar Bears' new goalie Mike Brodeur gave up three goals in just as many shootout attempts, while all three Orlando players came up empty on their tries Sunday afternoon during the Solar Bears' 6-5 shootout loss to the Greenville Road Warriors at the Amway Center.

The Solar Bears, who started goalie Mike Brodeur for the first time all season, gave up two early goals in the first period, but were able to narrow Greenville's lead to one, when forward Olivier Fortier scored on a Solar Bears power play late in the period.

"We didn't compete for the full 60 minutes, we competed in parts of the game and we just made some mental mistakes," said Solar Bears coach Drake Berehowsky of his team's play after the game.

Orlando played much better in the second period, and that showed with three unanswered goals for the Solar Bears. Alternate captain Kevin Baker got his first goal of the season less than five minutes into the period, thanks in part to assists by Ryan Cruthers and center Mathew Sisca.

Kyle Medvec was able to give Orlando its first lead of the evening when he put the puck in the back of the net midway through the second period.

Courtesy of Orlando Solar Bears

Captain Ryan Cruthers helped lead the way for the Solar Bears, notching a goal during the game.

Greenville was able to score early in the third period, to cut the Solar Bears' lead to one, before a goal by Rob Mignardi put Orlando back up by two.

The Road Warriors came back with two goals of their own in the final three minutes of regulation.

The game tying goal came with 11 seconds left in the game when Greenville was able to get a score from Sean Berkstresser shortly after pulling their goalie.

Ryan Cruthers also scored for the Solar Bears during regulation time, making him and Mathew Sisca the only Orlando players with a point in every game this season.

Sisca had two assists during the night, both of which came during a three goal second period for the Solar Bears.

"No excuses for losing that game, we should have won, it was 5-3 with four minutes left," said Sisca following the game.

Nick Petersen also had two assists for the Solar Bears on Sunday, following a brief one-game stint with the Houston Aeros over the weekend. Petersen still leads the ECHL in scoring with his 14th goal of the season.

The shootout loss marked the second time the Solar Bears had been in shootout this season, the only other time coming in Orlando's home opening win against the Florida Everblades.

With the loss, the Solar Bears' record falls to 3-1-1-1, but they do come away with a valuable point in the standings. With the one point the Bears jump into a three way tie for second place in the south division standings.

The team now hits the road for a four-game road trip, before returning home on Nov. 7 to host the Gwinnett Gladiators on back-to-back days.

HUNGER HAS A FAVORITE BAND, TOO.

1 IN 6 AMERICANS
STRUGGLES WITH HUNGER.

TOGETHER
WE'RE

FEEDING
AMERICA

Hunger is closer than you think. Reach out to your local food bank for ways to do your part. Visit FeedingAmerica.org today.

Game Schedule

Orlando Solar Bears

Nov. 1 at Gwinnett, 7:05 p.m.

Nov. 2 at Greenville, 7:00 p.m.

Nov. 3 at South Carolina, 7:05 p.m.

Nov. 7 vs Gwinnett, 7:00 p.m.

@OrlandoHockey

Orlando Magic

Nov. 2 vs Denver, 7:00 p.m.

Nov. 4 vs Pheonix, 6:00 p.m.

Nov. 6 at Chicago, 8:00 p.m.

Nov. 7 at Minnesota, 8:00 p.m.

@Orlando\_Magic

NFL WEEK 9

Nov. 4 Miami at Indianapolis, 1:00 p.m.

Nov. 4 Tampa Bay at Oakland, 4:05 p.m.

Nov. 4 Detroit at Jacksonville, 1:00 p.m.

@nfl

UCF Football

Nov. 3 vs SMU, 7:00 p.m.

Nov. 10 at UTEP, 7:00 p.m.

@UCF\_Football

Barclays Premier League

Nov. 3 Arsenal at Manchester United, 8:45 a.m.

Nov. 3 Chelsea at Swansea City, 11:00 a.m.

Nov. 3 Manchester City at West Ham, 1:30 p.m.

Nov. 3 Tottenham at Wigan, 11:00 a.m.

@premierleague