

Orlando City prepare for life after USL Pro | Page 4

*"We have been on a journey to achieve a more perfect union."
— State Senator Geraldine Thompson on the importance that amendments play in ensuring all men and women, share in prosperity and equality.*

Universal's HHN begins this weekend | Page 3

Collegewide updates

- College Night is right around the corner. Meet with more than 120 colleges and universities from near and far
- Global Peace Week runs until Sept.19 throughout the Valencia community. Check out there cal-ender for a list of free films, actives and speakers.
- Graduation application deadline is this Friday, Sept. 19
- Join Phi Beta Lambda for an exciting afternoon of free food and good music on East Campus, Wednesday, Sept. 24 , at 4 p.m. in the mall area.
- Osceola Campus President Receives Compadre Award from Hispanic Business Council.
- Join FCIE September 25-26, 2014 for their annual fall conference, sponsored by Valencia College.

CONTENTS

Golf.....	6	Sponsors.....	2
Lifestyles.....	3	UCF.....	5
Sports.....	4-6	VCNews.....	2

Annual Global Peace Week to promote coexistence

Valencia's Peace and Justice Initiative to host five free films

By Ty Wright
twright@valenciavoice.com

In conjunction with Orlando's Global Peace film festival, Valencia College's Peace and Justice Initiative will host five movie screenings in unison with Global Peace Week.

The theme for this year's Peace Week is "coexistence." This year, the college will show art from an internationally acclaimed art exhibit dedicated to peaceful coexistence, on Osceola Campus throughout the course of the week.

The screenings began last Friday, September 12, on the Winter Park Campus, with a showing of "Girl Rising," and will conclude on Sept. 19 with a showing of "Beyond the Divide."

Following select screenings, Q&A sessions will be held with the movie's filmmaker.

Special guests will include Carl Wilkins and Mike Savage. For a complete schedule of films being held on Valencia College Campuses in part of Orlando's Global Peace film Festival, click here.

Wilkins is a humanitarian aid worker, who was selected to remain in Rwanda after the 1994 genocide began. He is also the founder of World Outside my Shoes, a nonprofit organization committed to inspiring and equipping people to enter the world of "The Other," according to the groups website description. He will have screenings on each campus displaying his new film "I'm Not Leaving."

Savage is a former British military officer responsible for investigating genocide. He now teaches history and genocide studies at Valencia College.

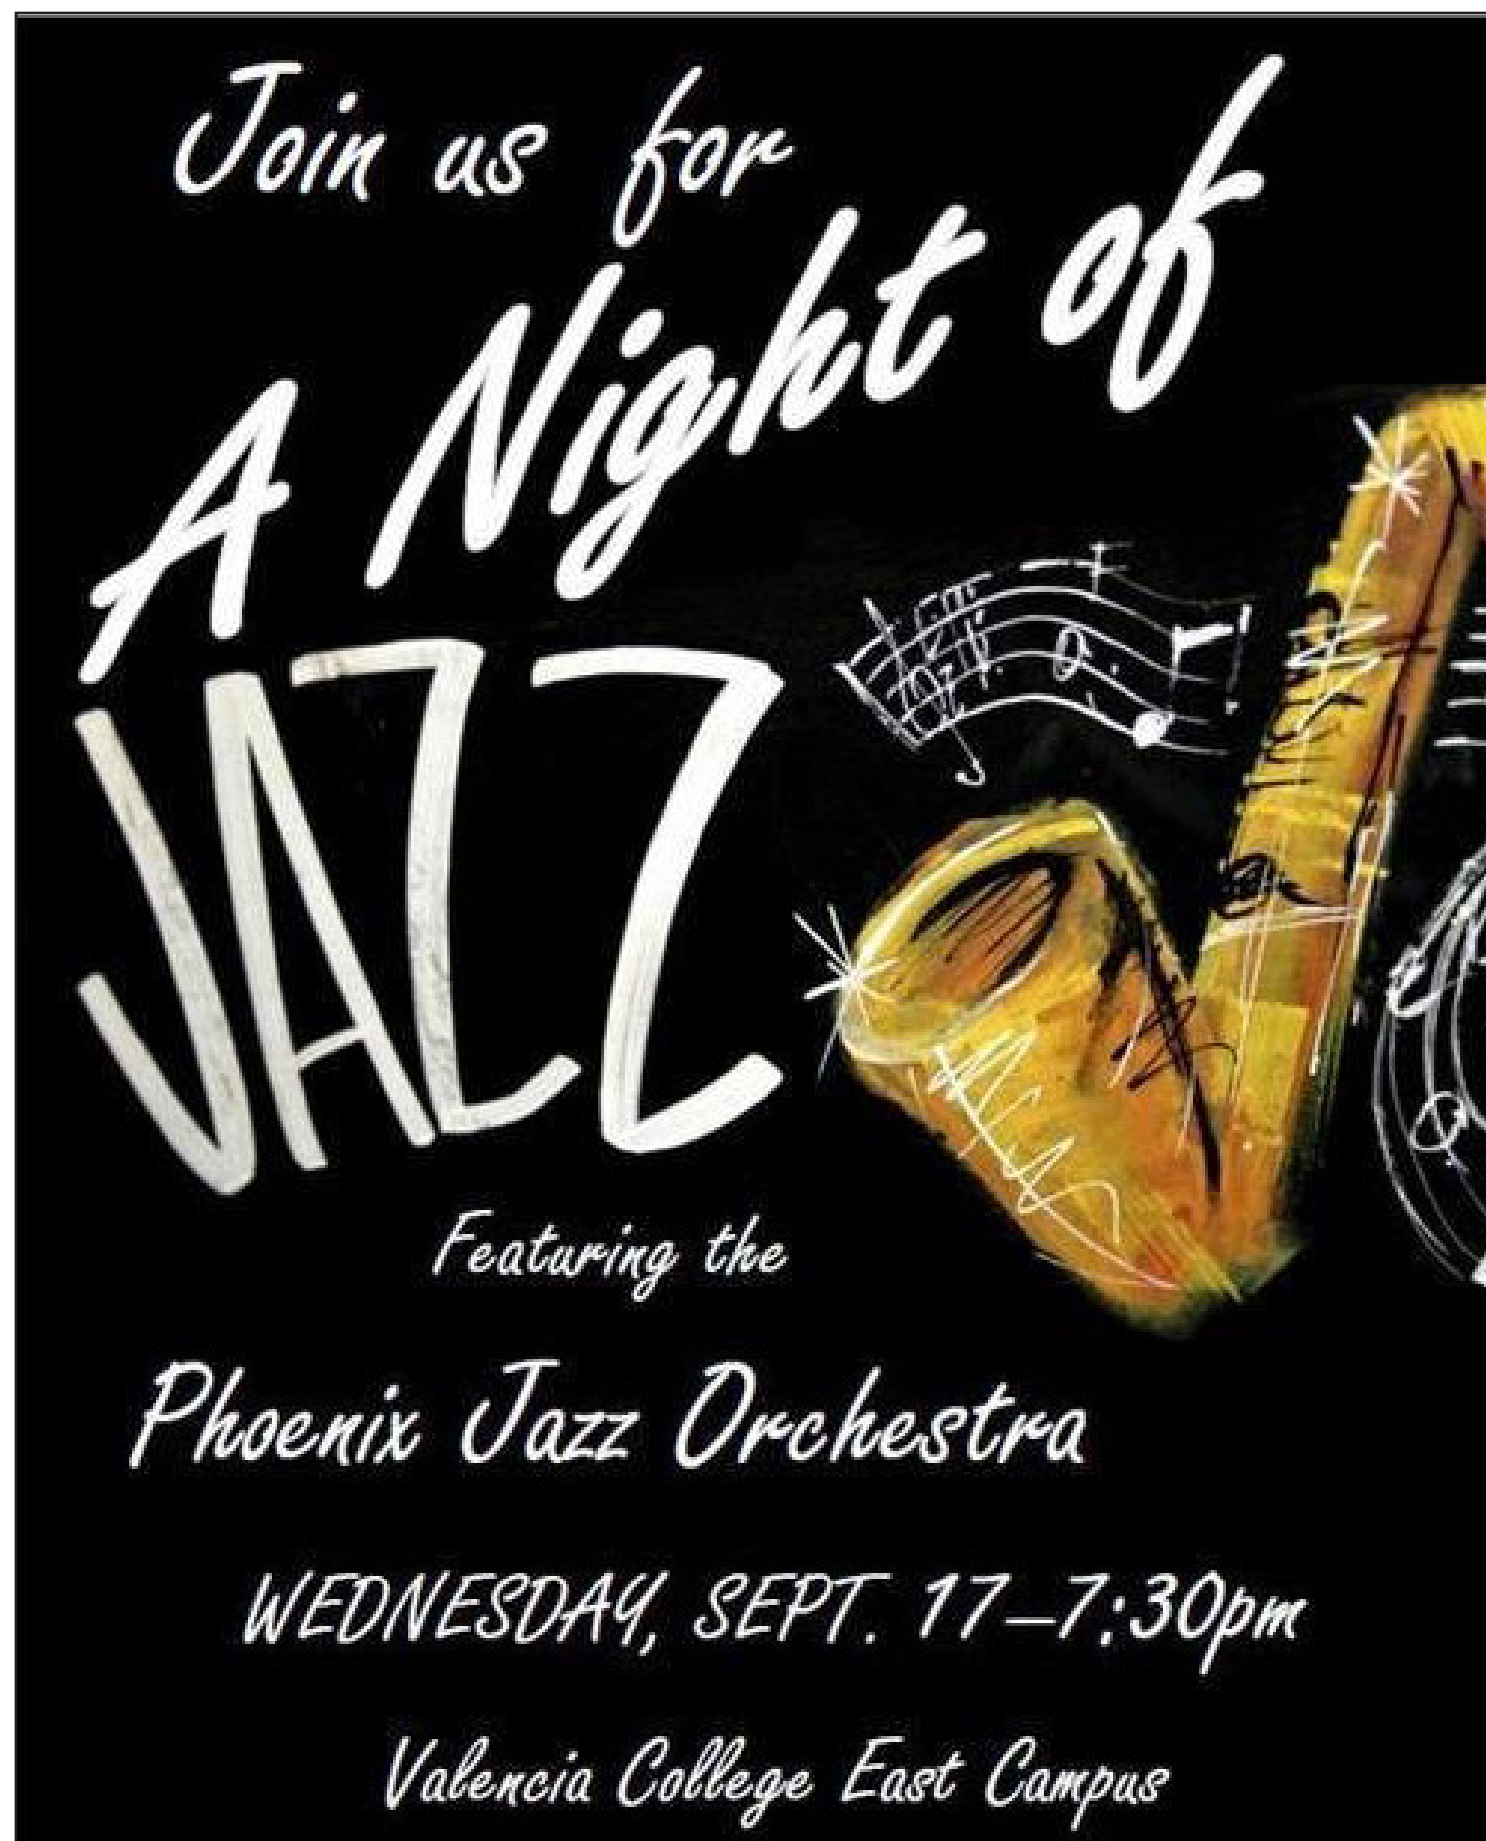

All events are a lead up to International Peace Day on Sept. 21.

The peace and justice initiative will be selling Global Peace Week Shirts for $10.

Peace and Justice Initiative Facebook

Krystal Pherai, staff assistant of Peace and Justice Initiative (left), and Rachel Chipman Allen, humanities professor at Valencia College, pose wearing this year's Global Peace Week T-shirt. The shirts will be available for purchase for $10 during this week's activities cross campus in part of Global Peace Week.

Join us for A Night of
JAZZ

Featuring the
Phoenix Jazz Orchestra

WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 17 - 7:30pm

Valencia College East Campus

Hit me with music, Valencia rocks

Jazz players to enlighten and entertain in part of Humanities Speakers Series at East Campus Performing Arts Center

By Cory Diserio
cdiserio@valenciavoice.com

Join Valencia College for "A Night of Jazz" hosted by The Humanities Speakers Series this Wednesday at the East Campus Performing Arts Center.

The event will feature The Phoenix Jazz Orchestra, a 20-piece Big Band, "An orchestra of the future, not a band of the past."

The Phoenix Jazz Orchestra (PJO) has its foundations in The Jazz Project, under the direction of pianist Don Scaletta. While the music of Stan Kenton will remain a staple element of the PJO performances, the ensemble has expanded their repertoire, adding arrangements performed by the big bands of Buddy Rich, Doc Severinsen, Woody Herman, Maynard Ferguson, Thad Jones & Mel Lewis, Count Basie, and Duke Ellington, and still expanding.

PJO is proud to perform these most influential pieces that have forever changed the world of big band jazz.

The performers will be discussing and speaking on the great musicians of the past and their works in this performance.

The event is free and open to the public and will start at 7:30 p.m. on Wednesday, September 17th at the East Campus Performing Arts Center, 701 N Econlockhatchee Trail, Orlando, FL 32825

CRM | CENTER FOR REPRODUCTIVE MEDICINE
CRM EGG DONATION

Help others and
EARN $4,500+
for the fall!

GIVE THE GIFT OF LIFE. CLICK HERE GET STARTED!

Halloween Horror Nights kicks off this weekend in Orlando

Universal Studios increases scare zones, unretires characters Mike Myers, Beetlejuice for annual spooky event

By Bryce Brimhall

bbrimhall@valenciavoices.com

With summer winding down and fall approaching fast, there is one holiday on everyone's mind: Halloween.

And with the candy, costumes and parties comes Universal Orlando Resort's premiere scare-fest, Halloween Horror Nights (HHN), which is returning to Universal Studios for its 24th year for select nights Sept. 19 through Nov. 1.

Skipping the theming process, Universal simply stuck with "You've been warned..." as the tagline for this year's event.

Eight new houses were added constructed in the various sound stages around the Universal Studios lot, as well as four new scare zones along the path between the different houses.

The different houses this year represent different facets of the horror genre that have been very successful in scaring the pants off their viewers.

A couple of the houses bring back some of the past's fiercest foes. "Halloween" brings John Carpenter's 1978 film to life, as you follow Michael Myers on his diabolical night of terror. "AVP: Alien vs. Predator" puts you into the epic 2004 battle between the two extraterrestrial species in an effort to escape with your life.

Three of the houses boast three of the seasons upcoming horror flicks and shows. "The Walking Dead: End of the Line" re-

Universal Orlando Resort

To mark the 35th anniversary celebration of Alien, and the 10th anniversary of AVP: Alien vs. Predator, "Halloween Horror Nights" guests and fans of these celebrated films will have a chance to live the horror of these diabolical beasts as they come face to face with the terror of Aliens and Predators.

turns the hit show to Universal with the biggest house to date, that will be home to more scare actors than ever before. "From Dusk Till Dawn" puts you into the El Rey Network television series where you must fend off flesh-hungry bikers in a bar in the middle of no where. "Dracula Untold - Reign of Blood" is the upcoming film that follows Vlad the Impaler as he becomes the prince of darkness, Dracula.

The last houses all just remind us of all the terribly spooky and scary things that kept us up in the night when we were young. "Dollhouse of the Damned" which is sure to be anything but child's play. "Giggles & Gore Inc.," featuring the factory where all evil clowns were made. And finally "Roanoke: Cannibal Colony" which sets you in the past in the ancient cannibalistic settlement.

Something Universal added a few years back that really made a difference in the event was the scare zones, areas of the park where no one is safe from the scare actors and their terrifying tactics.

The first of four scare zones right as you enter the park is "Maskerade: Unstitched," where the a ball attendants are much more horrifying underneath the masks.

The New York section of the park has been transformed into "The Purge: Anarchy," where all laws have been abolished for 12 hours as citizens try to live through the night.

Between Springfield and Hollywood, you'll find the "Bayou of Blood," where swamp people believe in voodoo and are looking for the nights sacrifice.

The last scare zone located along Hollywood Way is "Face Off: In The Flesh," which will feature the best creatures from the SciFi television series.

Returning the site of the Beetle Juice Graveyard review will be "The Rocky Horror Picture Show: A Tribute," where you can do the time warp again to clips and performances from the cult classic.

Taking of the Fear Factor stage is the always funny "Bill and Ted's Excellent Halloween Adventure," which rips into the biggest names in politics, entertainment, and pop culture.

Certain rides will also be open during the event including "TRANSFORMERS: The Ride-3D," "Hollywood Rip Ride Rockit," "Revenge Of The Mummy," "MEN IN BLACK: Alien Attack," "Despicable Me: Minion Mayhem," and "The Simpsons Ride."

A single night event-only admission ticket is $95.99 plus tax, but Florida Residents can receive up to $50 off admission with specially marked Coca-Cola products.

A HHN Add-On ticket can be purchased along with a park ticket or if you have an Annual Pass and can be purchased for $41.99 for Sunday through Thursday, $56.99 for Fridays, and $72.99 for Saturdays.

The Rush of Fear Pass allows you to go to the event up to ten different nights on Sunday through Thursday during the first three weeks for $75.99.

The Frequent Fear Pass allows entry up to 16 different nights Sunday through Thursday throughout the event for $86.99 while the Frequent Fear Plus adds Fridays as well for $102.99

An extra $100 towards any pass will allow Express access, which lets you skip the line once per attraction, per visit.

Orlando City's USL PRO-era ends with early playoff exit

Question of which players stay and who goes remains unanswered as team looks ahead to MLS debut in 2015

By Danny Morales
dmorales@valenciavoice.com

Orlando City didn't end their USL PRO legacy the way they wanted, as the Lions fell to the Harrisburg City Islanders 1-0 on Saturday in the quarterfinals of the USL PRO playoffs.

Orlando went down early when Antione Hoppenot opened up the scoring for Harrisburg in the 39th minute, scoring on a counter attack, giving the Islanders a 1-0 lead going into halftime.

"I thought our first half performance was probably as bad as we've had for a long period of time," said Orlando City manager Adrian Heath after the game. "At the end of the day we didn't do enough.

"It's sad the season that we've had with all the records that we've broken ends with that type of performance. But hey that's football, that's the way it goes, that's the way sport is."

Orlando City battled in the second half to try and get an equalizer, but were continually stopped by the Islanders defense. The Lions only managed one shot on goal in the second half, while Harrisburg created three of their own in the final 45 minutes.

"We came out flat, the whole first half was kind of back-and-forth and they had the upper edge, and then they get a goal and then it was just tough to come back," said Tommy Redding following the game. "We worked our butts off the second half and it's just tough."

Heath would use all five of his substitutes in the second half to try and swing the momentum, but besides a non-call on a play where Dennis Chin went down in the penalty box, there wasn't much offense for Orlando.

The Lions continued to attack late in the game, even getting a free-kick during the final minutes of stoppage time, but Orlando City just couldn't find the back of the net.

"It's a tough way to end the season, and for a lot of guys it's a tough way to end the four years," said Redding after the defeat. "I wish them all the best and I'd like to thank them all for everything they've taught me this year.

"They're like my brothers I love them so much."

With the loss the Lions are bounced from the playoffs in the opening round for the second time in three years, but what will be different this time from 2012 is that Orlando will be preparing to enter the MLS next season.

Orlando City will leave the USL PRO with a 6-2 playoff record, while also recording 67 regular season wins.

"I think what we've done with the records will stand the test of time," said Heath. "We've broken so many records over the past two or three years.

"Without the wins that we've had in the last four years we probably wouldn't be going to MLS."

The loss was taken hard by many players, especially considering this is the final time many of these players will play together as most guys on the roster are not guaranteed spots on the MLS club next season.

"It's rough for all of us," said Redding about the loss. "It's a nightmare I would say."

As of Tuesday, Tyler Turner, Tommy Redding, Kevin Molino, Darwin Ceren, Estrela, Rafael Ramos and Kaka are guaranteed spots on the club when they make the jump to MLS.

The club announced on Tuesday that they are in contract talks with Luke Boden, Harrison Heath and Adama Mbengue.

All other players from the 2014 USL PRO season have been released as of Tuesday, that includes veteran goalkeeper Miguel Gallardo, defender Rob Valentino and Oviedo native Dennis Chin, among various others.

Orlando City currently have seven players signed to MLS contracts, with Kaka being the only Designated Player on the roster.

Out of Orlando's seven players, at least three will be classified as "international" by the MLS, leaving the club with five international roster slots.

With Gallardo gone the Lions will be looking for a new goalkeeper this off-season, with rumors having circulated last year that Real Salt Lake keeper Nick Rimando was on the club's radar.

The club will also have to find some forwards for their MLS squad, as they released Chin, Corey Hetzog and Giuseppe Gentile.

It was also announced this week that Anthony Pulis would be retiring to coach the Orlando City youth academy.

Cody Taylor / Valencia Voice

Orlando City lost 1-0 in the USL PRO quarterfinal.

Cody Taylor / Valencia Voice

Bryan Burke (right) is one of the many players who were released by Orlando City on Tuesday.

Knights can't wait to play at home

UCF returns to Bright House Networks Stadium for first time in over 9 months

By Cody Taylor
ctaylor@valenciavoice.com

After losing their first two games on the road, returning home on Saturday to play Bethune-Cookman may be just what the UCF Knights need to get their season back on track.

UCF opened up the season with losses against Penn State on Aug. 30 in Ireland, and last week against Missouri. Although the Knights lost by 28 points to Missouri, the game was within reach up until about the midway point of the third quarter.

"You can't turn the ball over four times and give people a short field and that's what we did," Knights head coach George O'Leary said. "When you look at the total yards of that game, Missouri had 23 more yards than we did."

"What I felt like on the sideline is that we sort of shot ourselves in the foot on drives. We had sustained drives out there but the end result is you got to put the ball in the end zone."

One of the biggest areas in which the Knights failed against Missouri was on the defensive side of the ball. Heading into the season the Knights' defense was projected to pick up where they left off from last season, but the defense has been anything but great.

Through the first two games, the Knights' defense ranks 87th in the country in total defense, including 108th in the country against the pass.

"I think third down has been the issue," O'Leary said. "We've been very poor on third down getting off of the field. You got to make plays on third down, we've had our opportunity with tackles in the backfield and you can't give up the hidden yardage."

The area of emphasis following the game against Missouri seemed to be tackling. The Knights' defense missed a lot of tackles and O'Leary already has the team working on tackling drills this week in practice.

"We worked on it today," said O'Leary in his weekly press conference. "You can't teach tackling. You can only learn tackling so much; even the pros are starting to show it as far as without the contact that they've eliminated. We tackled [on Monday] on all three defensive groups because I think our angles were bad on Saturday."

Saturday's 6 p.m. kickoff at Bright House Networks Stadium marks the Knights' first home game of the season and it could be a game the Knights use to jump start their season as the school has won six-straight home openers and are 9-1 at home over the last 10 games.

Ty Wright / Valencia Voice

The Knights last started a season 0-2 in 2005.

"It's been a while since we've been at home," senior linebacker Troy Gray said. "Just getting back out on our home field and having our fans behind us and seeing them get [hyped] up and getting excited. I think it'll definitely motivate us."

Inside the number:

- UCF last started 0-2 in 2005
- The Knights are 10-5 against B-CU
- Clayton Geathers has started 42 straight games for UCF
- Jacoby Glenn has 15 tackles and two interceptions so far this season
- B-CU is 2-0 to open up the season
- UCF last played at home on Nov. 29, 2013 against rival USF

File photo / Valencia Voice

UCF will play their first game at home on Saturday since Nov. 29, 2013, when they defeated USF.

Upcoming UCF Knights Schedule

Date	Opponent	Time/Result
Aug. 30	vs. Penn State	L, 26-24
Sept. 13	at Missouri	L, 38-10
Sept. 20	vs. B-CU	6:00 p.m. ET
Oct. 2	at Houston*	7:00 p.m. ET
Oct. 9	vs. BYU	7:30 p.m. ET
Oct. 18	vs. Tulane*	TBA
Oct. 25	vs. Temple*	TBA
Nov. 1	at UCONN*	TBA
Nov. 14	vs. Tulsa*	8:00 p.m. ET
Nov. 22	vs. SMU*	TBA
Nov. 28	at USF*	TBA
Dec. 4	at ECU*	7:30 p.m. ET

* American Athletic Conference game

Player to Watch: Cornerback Jacoby Glenn

Valencia Voice staff predictions:

Danny Morales: 42-10 UCF

Bryce Brimhall: 31-13 UCF

Frank Shala: 34-17 UCF

Cody Taylor: 42-17 UCF

Ty Wright: 34-13 UCF

The road to recovery

Woods set to return to the course later this year

By Frank Shala
fshala@valenciavoices.com

With another injury related withdrawal in August at the PGA Championship, Tiger Woods knew it was time to put the clubs down and get back to full strength.

"I haven't swung a golf club yet," said Woods. "I've just been shadow swinging without a club, but I've been busting my butt in the gym pretty hard. I've got my strength back, which is nice. Now the next goal is to get my explosiveness and my fast twitch going, and that's the next phase of my training."

Woods spoke at Isleworth Country Club in Orlando, FL this week regarding the move of the World Golf Challenge to Isleworth, and the new title sponsor, Hero MotoCorp. However, the topic of conversation quickly shifted to the health of the 14-time Major champion.

"We have our goals and benchmarks, but it's also day-to-day," said Woods. "Some days I'm making bigger gains than others, some days I'm backing off a little bit."

Woods recently parted ways with swing coach Sean Foley, whom he has been partnered with since 2010. Woods said at this point, he has no plans to hire a new coach in the near future and added that with the state of his game right now, there are things that he needs to improve himself.

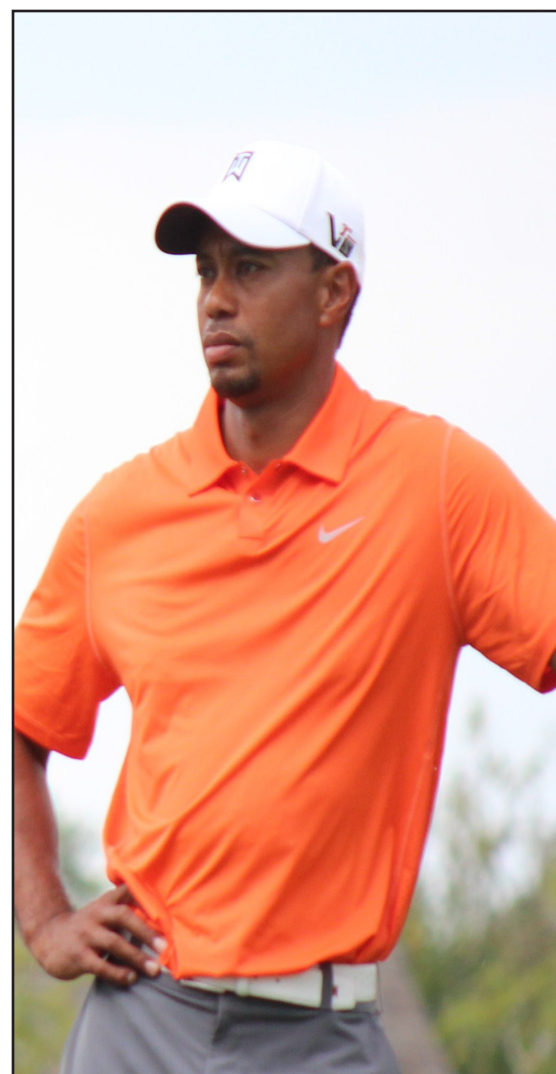

"Right now I'm just trying to get physically better, stronger, faster, more explosive," said Woods.

"As far as knowing more than my coaches, I would have to say on the technical side, I probably don't know as much as some of them, but from a feel standpoint, which is something that I think is innate, because of what we're able to do at such an elite level, yeah, I think I know a lot more than they do because they've never played down the stretch on the back nine of a major championship, never won majors, never felt what do the hands feel, what does the body feel, the things that we as players at this level who have won enough times understand."

Woods also spoke on his relationship with world number one ranked golfer, and fellow Nike athlete Rory McIlroy, who recently drew criticism for comments regarding Woods, and Phil Mickelson.

"I thought it was funny," said Woods. "I mean, Phil has less holes to play than I do, though...it's a reality, you know? We're all older, I'm nearing my 20th season on TOUR here coming up pretty soon."

"It's just part of the aging process. When I first came out here on TOUR, I remember seeing some of these kids out here that, fellow players and their kids, and now I'm actually playing against their kids. It's just how time goes on and time goes by, added Woods.

Ty Wright / Valencia Voice

Woods says the hunger to play again is as strong as it ever is, but knows that when he returns to the course, he wants to be the old Tiger.

"Would I like to play? There's no doubt, yes. I miss competing, I miss playing, I miss being out here with the guys, I miss all that, but I'm not physically ready for it yet, said Woods. "You know, there's two components to it. Yeah, you can strong, but I want to be back to where I used to be. I want to have that speed back again."

PGA obtains new title sponsor

By Frank Shala
fshala@valenciavoices.com

The Tiger Woods Foundation and Tavistock Group announced India-based Hero MotoCorp, the world's largest manufacturer of two-wheelers, will become the new title sponsor of the Hero World Challenge, beginning this year.

"This tournament has been an integral part of my foundation since 1999 and has raised $25 million for my foundation and local charities," said Tiger Woods. "We are thrilled to partner with Tavistock Group to make the tournament an even stronger platform for the game of golf and I am very excited to welcome Hero MotoCorp as title sponsor. They are a global brand and a great fit for the Hero World Challenge."

Hero MotoCorp sells more than six million two-wheelers annually. The New Delhi (India)-headquartered company currently sells motorbikes and scooters in 20 countries across Asia, Africa, and South and Central America. Hero is projecting mass production numbers for the next few years, and aims to be present in 50 countries by the year 2020.

"There is much to be proud of as we gather here today to announce the title sponsorship of the World Challenge, which from now on will be called the Hero World Challenge, a tournament known across the world as a premier invitational hosted by Tiger Woods," said Hero vice-chairman and CEO Pawan Munjal. "It serves as a perfect platform for us to start our journey in these lands at these levels."

This will be the 16th annual World Challenge hosted by Woods, which for the last 15 years was contested at Sherwood Country Club in Thousand Oaks, CA. The tournament will move coasts, moving to Isleworth Golf & Country Club in Orlando.

Host Tiger Woods, along with 17 of the PGA TOUR's best players will compete for a $3.5 million purse. The 72-hole, stroke play event will take place the week of Dec. 1-7.

Santanu Gogoi

Hero MotoCorp will take over as title sponsor for the World Golf Challenge this year.